

Directions: Use the image and source information to answer the question that follows.

Source: This illustration from the 1870s shows French General Louis-Joseph de Montcalm attempting to stop his Native American allies from massacring captured British soldiers and civilians at Fort William Henry in 1757 during the Seven Years' War.

Additional facts related to the illustration:

1. Many Americans in the 1870s believed that Native Americans were barbaric.
2. The Native Americans allied with Montcalm did not all speak French and may not have understood his instructions to let their British prisoners live.
3. The British army recruited Native American allies during the Seven Years' War.

Question: Which 1 of 3 the facts above might cause you to question the reliability of this illustration as a representation of what happened at Fort William Henry?

Explain your reasoning on the following page.

CONTINUE ON BACK

TEACHING with PRIMARY
SOURCES

Stanford History Education Group

Fact _____ might cause me to question the reliability of this illustration because _____
